Creating an inclusive practice for patients with developmental disabilities

Dr. Nicole Neil, Associate Professor, UWO

Oral health care is the most prevalent unmet health care need among children with developmental disabilities such as autism spectrum disorder and Down syndrome. They present with unique challenges in oral health care because behavior management may be challenging and their medical history may be complex. This talk will give an overview of the oral health care needs of individuals with developmental disabilities, and provide evidence-based strategies to make dental visit a pleasant experience. We will outline the various adaptations a dentist can make to create an inclusive practice for individuals with disabilities.
