Full details about the Common Course Policy are found on the BMSc website.

For these Double Majors, there are 1.5 “common courses”: Biochemistry 2280A, Chemistry 2213A or 2273A, and Biology/Stats 2244A/B. The two common half courses with the highest marks are double-counted/used toward both Major modules. The remaining common half course is used only toward one of the Majors leaving the other Major short of a half course. A half “substitute course” must then be taken for the Major that is short by a half course. Look at the Substitute Course lists to see whether you prefer the substitute courses that have been approved for one Major vs. the other Major. If you prefer to take a course listed in the substitute course list for the Major in IMS, then the remaining common half course is used toward the Major in Biochemistry and the substitute half course is used toward the Major in IMS.
