

TRUTH AND RECONCILIATION AT SCHULICH MEDICINE & DENTISTRY

SEPT 30 IS NATIONAL DAY FOR TRUTH AND RECONCILIATION (NDTR)

My ReconciliACTION is...

Beyond the Orange Shirt: What Comes Next?

Wearing an orange shirt is a powerful symbol, but reconciliation requires ongoing commitment. Learning the truth about residential schools and unlearning the colonial narratives that created them is a process. Use this journey to create meaningful ReconciliACTION to honour Survivors and the Indigenous children who never returned home.

What is your ReconciliACTION?

Use the QR code above to anonymously share an action you will take toward reconciliation this year. Big or small, your contribution will join a living wall of commitments to inspire even more collective action and change.

*Inspired by Western's Indigenous Learning Circle session on ReconciliACTION (Sept. 22, 2021) and the reflections gathered through its Padlet activity.

Why It Matters

Every action is a step forward. Together, we can create a culture of respect, learning, humility and accountability at Schulich that honors our responsibilities for truth and reconciliation.

Some Ideas To Get You Started

- I will support Indigenous-led initiatives in my community
- I will watch the film "The Unforgotten" exploring the health and well-being of Indigenous peoples in Canada
- I will take the "Unpacking and Addressing Anti-Indigenous Racism" module at Western
