

Hepatology Application Process:

The AFC program director, as well as the AFC program committee members will participate in the selection and interview process. Applicants will be required to submit the following documents to the department director:

1. Curriculum Vitae
2. 3 reference letters (1 letter must be from your current Program Director)
3. Medical Degree certificate
4. Internal Medicine training with Royal College certification or equivalent
5. Gastroenterology training with Royal College certification or equivalent

Applications should be submitted directly to program director/program administrator before September 1st for the next academic year. All files will be reviewed by the AFC Program Committee and candidates will be offered an interview based on career achievements, research, and reference letters. Interviews will be conducted in the last week of September or first two weeks of October each year and successful candidates will be informed by early November.
