

Passionate about international experiences for you and your students?

Interested in creating your own faculty-led program in a country that speaks to you?

Create a Faculty-Led Study Abroad Program

Why?

- Give your students exposure to another way of learning things outside of the classroom
- Help develop their intercultural skills
- Provide students with an international experience that they can add to their resume
- Give students the opportunity to make international connections

Next steps...

- Browse through the 'Create an International Program' pages on Western International's website and get an idea of what is involved
- Apply for funding of up to $15,000 through the International Curriculum Fund (deadline Mid-April)

Examples

- 2-week collaboration with host educational institution faculty and local industry or cultural site visits
- 6-week research opportunity
- 4-week faculty-led program engaging with the local community
