YOUR EXPERIENCE
In London, you will join 132 first-year students and develop a strong relationship with your 37 peers in Windsor. Throughout your four years, you will receive support from faculty and resident educators. You will also have the opportunity to engage in research, international studies through electives, participate in dozens of clubs and teams and get involved in the community.

“Studying medicine in London combines the complex clinical experience of a high-level tertiary care centre, with the feeling of living in a small community. Our London campus is made special by its people—here you’ll find a collection of staff, students, and faculty, all dedicated endlessly to each other’s success in life and academia.”

– Jacob Wihidal, Medicine Class of 2022

Your first- and second-year learning takes place primarily in two environments at Western University including the:

- Medical Sciences Building: classrooms equipped with video-conferencing capabilities to facilitate concurrent learning in London and Windsor
- Clinical Skills Learning Building: 16 simulated examination rooms, discussion rooms, and observation rooms to facilitate small group learning in London

Your practical experience takes place at two main hospital sites located close to campus:

- London Health Sciences Centre comprised of University Hospital, Victoria Hospital, the Children’s Hospital and the London Regional Cancer Program
- Joseph’s Health Care London, comprised of St. Joseph’s Hospital, Parkwood Institute and the Southwest Centre for Forensic Mental Health Care

Your clinical placements will take place in London and in more than 60 communities throughout Southwestern Ontario. During your clinical placements, you will have the opportunity to work in hospital inpatient wards and outpatient clinics, regional clinics and private physician offices encompassing various specialties.

“I’ve grown to love the city of London. The network of trails through the city and beautiful communities and landscapes nearby make for incredible weekend hikes and cycling. I’m grateful for the diversity in clinical experience that I’ve had - I feel like I’ve had exposure to so many areas in medicine already, and there are many dedicated faculty who are willing to offer mentorship and support.”

– Natalie Sloof, Medicine Class of 2021

CITY OF LONDON
Set in the heart of Southwestern Ontario, London is the region’s economic, entertainment and cultural hub.

Big enough for the ‘big city’ experience, but still far more affordable in comparison with many other Canadian cities. London boasts vibrant arts, sports and entertainment scenes and has an extensive educational and health care community, while providing the safe and clean atmosphere of a small community.
YOUR EXPERIENCE

In Windsor you will join 37 first-year students and develop a strong relationship with your 133 peers in London. Throughout your four years, you will receive support from faculty and resident educators. You will also have the opportunity to engage in research, international studies through electives, participate in dozens of clubs and teams and get involved in the community.

“The Windsor campus is special because of its incredible sense of community. It’s amazing to know you always have an incredible network of people who will celebrate your successes with you, support you through your challenges, and are always willing to listen.”
– Kelsey Ambrose, Medicine Class of 2022

Your first-and second-year studies take place primarily in the Dr. Murray O’Neil Medical Education Centre at the University of Windsor.

• Lecture halls are equipped with video-conferencing capabilities to facilitate concurrent learning in Windsor and London
• Small group learning suites, a complete on-site clinical skills laboratory with 10 skills rooms and two observation rooms, and gross anatomy and virtual anatomy labs with high definition video systems to facilitate small group-learning

“One of the great things about the Windsor Campus is our building. It offers two lecture theatres, multiple small group rooms, an anatomy lab and several brand-new clinical skills suites. Plus, we have a giant “green wall” made out of real plants which you will hear many medical students rave about.”
– Kylie Suwary, Medicine Class of 2023

Your practical experience occurs at two hospitals - Windsor Regional Hospital and Hotel-Dieu Grace Healthcare.

Your clinical placements occur throughout the City of Windsor and Essex County at hospital inpatient wards, out patient clinics, community clinics and private offices encompassing various specialties.

Research experiences are available through nationally and internationally acclaimed clinical, educational, basic science and quality improvement researchers at the University of Windsor. You can also apply to participate in the Schulich UWindsor Opportunities for Research Excellence Program which takes place in Windsor or spend time in London and work in labs at Western, including those at Robarts Research Institute and Lawson Health Research Institute, through summer research programs.

“The contact with physicians is really great. When you get into clerkship you get a huge amount of hands-on experience. Obstetrics for example, some people catch over 30 babies – just a huge amount of clinical training. Even when I did a summer elective I got assigned my own patients and was a real part of the health care team. I love knowing that when it comes time for electives in fourth year, I will be a competitive medical student and that will reflect in stronger reference letters.”
– Alex Levesque, Medicine Class of 2022

CITY OF WINDSOR

Windsor is big enough to provide plenty of art, music, delicious food and natural beauty, but small and safe enough to make you feel instantly at home.

Windsor residents enjoy some of Canada’s best weather. This means you can take advantage of scenic biking, running, and walking trails along the Detroit River and make day trips to the dozens of area parks and beaches.

The Schulich School of Medicine & Dentistry is proud to offer the Doctor of Medicine (MD) Program from two campuses in Southwestern Ontario located on the grounds of Western University in London and the University of Windsor in Windsor.

At both campuses you will experience extensive self-directed learning, strong student support and culture. Your success is our goal.
