Developing a Method for Evaluating Social Prescription as a Means of Supporting Individuals Suffering from Substance Misuse in Whitefish River First Nation Community

Isabelle Keng (ikeng@uwo.ca)
4th Year HSP One Health Undergraduate Department of Pathology and Laboratory Medicine, Schulich School Of Medicine & Dentistry Western University, London, ON, Canada
Incorporating One Health into an Evaluation Plan

What is Social Prescription?
Prescribing a social, non-clinical, community activity to patients to improve their health and overall wellbeing
  • Traditional fishing and fish smoking practices

Goal: To create an evaluation plan capable of answering the main objective questions

Main Objectives:

Does Social Prescription Work?

How to Track Changes?

What Role did Humans, the Environment, and Animals Play?